

Launching your IoT solutions

As complex as the technology and devices that go into an IoT solution are, the true challenge and success of these solutions are in the implementation process. At Flex, we have refined our methodology to accurately outline every detail in each phase of your project. This means our skilled experts not only create an impressive IoT solution for your company, but also help avoid any possible risks and pitfalls like improper integration with other key business systems or security threats from external sources. So how do we do it?

The Implementation Process

Ultimately, the success of your IoT solution depends on proper implementation—and we have a methodology that’s proven to work.

Services you can trust

From our years of experience to our understanding of different industries, you can trust us with your IoT solution.

Expertise

We are the only company in the IoT market with the depth of experience across multiple industries. This allows us to leverage best practices from one industry to another to provide unique insights to each client. Whether your company specializes in renewable energy, home automation or wearable technology, your solution benefits from the knowledge we've gained across multiple industries.

Consistency

From discovery and design to development and management, Flex offers consistency. Because we are involved from the beginning and have a single collaborative team, we have insight into the design and intention of your solution. This allows us to foresee any possible hiccups in our ability to launch your solution as quickly as possible.

Discipline

At Flex, we designed our implementation methodology for success by covering both the hardware and software elements of your IoT solution. From the start of your project to the launch, we are there every step of the way to ensure each detail is executed flawlessly.

Success

We know what it takes to successfully launch an IoT solution. As a single partner, we understand the potential pitfalls and roadblocks, so we can address and even prevent them. And because our company functions on a subscription model, our success is directly tied to the success of your solution.

Flex is your dedicated partner. Flex works to understand your objectives, pain points and opportunities to develop a solution that best suits you and your customers. We're with you through the whole process—from sketch to scale and device to decisions.

Intelligent solutions.
Across many industries.

Aerospace & defense

Automotive

Building & housing

Consumer

Energy

Health

Lighting

Industrial

flex
LIVE SMARTER

For sales and solution support:

Andy Davies

andy.davies@flex.com

flex.com